

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the adoption process?

Please look at the animals in the adoption areas and read the basic information on their kennel cards. Once you have selected an animal, please ask the staff for more information and to show you the animal. When you are ready to adopt, please complete an application. Staff will review it and it needs to be approved before the pet can go home with you.

What are the Adoption Fees?

Cat: $35 Kitten: $50 Barn Cat: $30 Large Dog (>25 lbs): $100 Small Dog or Puppy: $150

All cats and dogs are spayed/neutered, wormed, micro chipped, receive a medical evaluation and one month of free health insurance from Shelter Care, and have received at least their first set of vaccinations, including rabies if they are old enough. Cats have tested negative for Feline Leukemia and FIV. All animals receive a behavioral evaluation.

Why do the dogs bark so much?

Shelters can be a stressful place for animals. There are constant visitors, other animals, noises, and smells that can upset them. There are several things you can do to help reduce the dogs' stress when you are walking through the dog yard. Dogs pick up on your energy and body language. Being calm and not staring will help the dogs realize you are not a threat. Big hats, kids, and people with alcohol on their breath are some things that frequently cause the dogs to bark. It doesn't mean they are aggressive. It means that something has aroused them and they are vocalizing their concern or they are trying to get your attention. The staff will show potential adopters dogs in the Get to Know You zone. You will get a much better read on their personality when they are away from all the other dogs and visitors.

Are you a No-Kill Shelter?

Heart of the Valley is an open admission animal shelter that does not euthanize animals for space or length of stay. This policy has gone by the name "no kill" in the past, and while we stand by that unchanged policy we find that the name is confusing to many people. Here's what the policy means:

Every dog or cat that comes to Heart of the Valley must be medically and behaviorally evaluated. Once an animal is deemed adoptable, we will care for that pet for as long as it takes until we find a new forever home. However, if an animal is deemed unadoptable for health or behavior reasons, that animal will be humanely euthanized. Because Heart of the Valley is an open admission facility, meaning we take in all pets regardless of history or health status, we have a great responsibility to our community to adopt back out only those animals that can humanely be managed and are safe around people and other pets. Unfortunately, not every animal can be saved, but for the overwhelming majority of the 2,500 pets we receive every year we are able to facilitate successful, happy endings!

What types of animals do you accept?

HOV accepts dogs and cats.

How do you get your animals?

Animals come to the shelter for a variety of reasons. Owners may surrender their pets because they are moving, having personal problems, no longer have time or the pet needs training. Others come to the shelter as lost animals and are never claimed. Some are abandoned or victims of abuse. Each animal has a story and we can pull the file and share information with potential adopters.

How many adoptions do you do?

In 2010, HOV reunited 557 pets with their families and found new homes for 1,351 animals.

How many animals are at the shelter?

The average daily census in 2010 was 204 animals. HOV serves approximately 2,500 stray, abandoned and surrendered animals every year from southwestern Montana. HOV rejects no companion animals and requires no surrender fee.

Can HOV spay/neuter and vaccinate owned animals?

HOV spays and neuters feral and semi-feral cats at no charge at our SNAP clinics. Please call 388-9399, ext 100, if you need more information about this program. We do not have the resources at this time to provide vaccination services to the public. The Montana Spay Neuter Task Force holds free clinics two times a year. They can be reached at www.montanaspayneutertaskforce.org and their phone is 388-1249.

Does HOV accept feral cats?

Yes, HOV accepts feral cats; however, all feral cats will be humanely euthanized after a period of four days. During that period, staff establishes whether they could be someone's lost pet and whether they are truly feral. Feral cats cannot be re-homed to a new location because instead of remaining in that new location, they will return to their former home.

What is HOV's policy on accepting pregnant females and orphans less than four weeks of age?

All pregnant dogs and cats are spayed immediately if they are surrendered by their owner, or after a four-day period if they are a stray. This is due to lack of resources and our commitment to reduce pet over-population. Orphaned animals that cannot eat on their own (under four weeks for puppies or under one pound for kittens) are humanely euthanized because they have compromised immune systems and usually develop into poorly socialized and/or aggressive pets.

How is HOV funded?

Heart of the Valley is a public 501(c) 3 non-profit organization funded by donations. We are supported primarily through the generosity of individuals and businesses.

Do you need volunteers?

Yes, volunteers are an integral part of the organization, and many of our programs depend exclusively on the support and participation of citizens from the community. Please complete an application today and put your love of animals into action by walking dogs, cuddling cats, helping in the office, providing foster care or in a variety of other ways.

Thank you for your support!
