

Cory Pulfrey

A Great Falls, Montana native, Cory received a BS in Chemical Engineering from Montana State University and an MBA from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School. Cory currently serves as a Partner of Cloverlay, a global private equity fund-of-funds, and is a member of the Firm's Investment Committee and Board of Directors. Prior to founding Cloverlay, Cory spent twelve years with Morgan Stanley Alternative Investment Partners (AIP). During his time with AIP, Cory served as AIP's Global Business Head for all strategies and Portfolio Manager and Business Head for the Private Markets Group. Earlier in his career, Cory was a Managing Director with the Weyerhaeuser Company Pension Fund Group. Prior to joining Weyerhaeuser's pension fund, he held various finance, investment and management positions within Weyerhaeuser.

More importantly, Cory and his wife Diane have created a haven for dogs and cats in their home on the north side of the Valley. Besides being the king and queen of foster care for HOV, their current pet inventory includes two dogs (Bailey and Ziggy) and four cats (Bella, Tigger, Simba and Malaika). Ziggy, Bella and Tigger are all HOV alumni. Cory and Diane have opened their home and hearts to HOV for a long, long time.
